

XHIBITION

Gottesman-Szmelcman Architecture — AECCafe— January 25, 2017 — VPM: 75,000

Gottesman Etching Center in Kibbutz Cabri, Northern Israel by Gottesman-Szmelcman Architecture

January 25th, 2017 by Sumit Singhal

Article source: Gottesman-Szmelcman Architecture

Gottesman-Szmelcman Architecture, the award-winning architectural firm based in Israel and France founded by architects Asaf Gottesman and Ami Szmelcman, will celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Gottesman Etching Center, a state-of-the-art venue for artists from Israel and around the world focused on the art, technique and production of etching works and home to the largest etching press in Israel with a maximal format capability of 130x230 cm, located in Kibbutz Cabri in the Western Galilee, Israel with a special event and lectures on Saturday, November 12, 2016.

Image Courtesy © Amit Geron

- Architects: Gottesman-Szmelcman Architecture
- Project: Gottesman Etching Center
- Location: Kibbutz Cabri, Northern Israel
- Photography: Amit Geron

Image Courtesy © Amit Geron

Located along the the Lebanese mountain range that defines the northern Israeli border, Kibbutz Cabri, home of the Gottesman Etching Center, has always served as a haven for the arts, hosting and playing home to pivotal Israeli artists such as Ori Reisman & Yechiel Shemi, in addition to boasting a regional school dedicated to the arts, as well as a print studio that has attracted international renown. The Gottesman Etching Center fulfills the very specific requirements of etching, as well as substantial exhibition spaces. The building is typified by its minimal yet pronounced presence within the landscape, its panoramic views and its use of defused natural light. long the Lebanese mountain range that defines the boarder.

Link to article:

<https://www10.aeccafe.com/blogs/arch-showcase/2017/01/25/gottesman-etching-center-in-kibbutz-cabri-northern-israel-by-gottesman->